ROAD TRANSPORTATION SKILL

Road Transportation skill is the skills set that one possesses that enables him to accomplish the task of moving passengers and goods from one location to another on road.

Transportation skill entails knowing how to drive or ride and to maintain a vehicle. It also entails knowing road signs, rules, regulations and safety. Hospitality to passengers and proper carriage of goods is also an important aspect of transportation skill.

Tools or rather equipment used in transportation skill are simply vehicles and their accessories. Examples of vehicles that are used are bicycles, motorcycles, cars, vans, etc.

The special place where transportation skill can be practiced is the road. As such developing this skill can't be done in a room but an estate-like environment. However, simulation (in the form of games) could be used to practice this skill likewise.
